

Hyun Song Shin

Economic Adviser and Head of Research, Bank for International Settlements

Hyun Song Shin is the Economic Adviser and Head of Research at the Bank for International Settlements. Before joining the BIS, he was the Hughes-Rogers Professor of Economics at Princeton University. Mr. Shin is the author of Risk and Liquidity (the 2008 Clarendon Lectures in Finance), and co-authored the 2009 Geneva Report on the Fundamental Principles of Financial Regulation. He is a Korean national. In 2010, on leave from Princeton, he served as the Senior Adviser to President Lee Myung-bak on the international economy. During Mr. Shin's tenure as Presidential Adviser, Korea designed and began implementation of its macroprudential policies. He is a fellow of the Econometric Society and of the British Academy.